

EKATERINE MESKHRIKADZE, Tbilisi/Georgia, has a background of a M.A. in foreign languages and a LL.B. at the Faculty of Law in Tbilisi. She has lecturing experience (languages, international project management) in various universities in Georgia and abroad and started her work as Attachée in the Georgian Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Later she went to non-governmental organizations active for the US Department of State and worked in EU projects, where the Georgia-Europe Policy and Legal Advice Centre (GEPLAC) has to be mentioned (here she was responsible for several years for project management, accountancy, financial controlling). Worked afterwards for the Georgian Foundation for Strategic and International Studies (GFSIS) and the Ministry for European and Euro-Atlantic Integration; since 2011 also Assistant Editor for EUFAJ